LAS VEGAS BLUES WILL BE BEATEN TO A FRAZZLE

Meadow City Aggregation
Will Be Marooned If They Come to Albuquerque Opinion of the Fans.

What's all this row about Las Vegas wiping the earth with Albuquerque and Amarillo, Dawson, Raton, Tijeras, Santa Fe and every other baseball club in the country?

Referring to an article in the Las Vegas Optic of yesterday to the effect that the Amarillo, Texas, amateur team had beaten two stragglers from Albuquerque, Manager Dan Padilla of the Grays sent today that the Amarillo club, which was here Saturday and Sunday, is a shop team, and is a good one. The "shop team" beat the Amarillo city team three out of a series of four, the statement of the Las Vegas fans to the contrary notwithstanding. The Albuquerque fans are well satisfied with the games between Albuquerque and Amarillo, in fact so well pleased that arrangements have been made to have the Texans come here for three additional games the first week in September.

"The Las Vegas club is not cheezy," said Manager Padilla today. "A shop team has just as much right to meet a good team as any other club. All they need is the players. Amarillo and Las Vegas are not in the same class at all. Las Vegas hasn't played two games this season with only three errors for 18 innings. Amarillo made one error in the Sunday game with us and one on Saturday. I defy the Las Vegas bunch to produce a like record."

Manager Padilla said today that as soon as an open date is available he will take the Las Vegas club on for a game or two and teach them a few things. Las Vegas, it is understood, has indicated that it will play the Grays under certain conditions. At the conditions have been named by Las Vegas, none by Albuquerque.

"I will agree to almost anything," said Manager Padilla today. "I want Las Vegas to bring down an impore with them if they come here, and I also want them to bring down the Las Vegas company of National Guards. They seem to believe they will need them. Anyway, the game between Albuquerque and Amarillo was played last Sunday was done in an hour and 15 minutes. On the same day Las Vegas played Raton and it took them two hours and 50 minutes to negotiate nine innings.

"Las Vegas has a straight professional team. Albuquerque has only one paid player—Rube Weeks. But Rube can beat Las Vegas and beat them bad."

The Las Vegas Optic calls Manager Padilla, "Bear Admiral Hot Dope Dan," and has the following to say regarding the proposed hostilities between the Maroons and the Grays:

"Bear Admiral Hot Dope Dan Padilla really meant business when he issued the talk that the Maroons were afraid to tackle the Albuquerque Grays on their home grounds, he now has a chance to make good. Last night a challenge to Mr. Padilla and his Grays was telephoned to the Albuquerque aggregation by the Las Vegas Baseball association.

The challenge states that if Mr. Padilla will agree to keep off the playing field and be even as one of the amateur fans in the grandstand and will appoint a committee of citizens of Albuquerque to handle the gates and hold after other financial and business affairs of the game, the Maroons will play the Grays in Albuquerque the latter part of this month. This is just to show Mr. Padilla the Maroons are not afraid of him and his Grays, Rube Weeks included. An answer from Mr. Padilla is expected to be forthcoming soon."

OLESON AGREES TO THROW DOMINEK

Old Rivals Will Meet at Raton
Tomorrow Night; Oleson to Down Dawson Man Three Times in 70 Minutes.

Young Oleson and Emil Dominek, old-time rivals for honors on the mat, will meet in Raton tomorrow night at the Lyric theater in what is expected to be one of the fastest bouts ever witnessed in that town. Oleson agrees to throw the Dawson man three times in 70 minutes or forfeit his money. Also if Dominek fails to throw Oleson once in that time he will be declared the winner. Sporting fans will take an unusual interest in this event because of the claims of Dominek when he appeared in Albuquerque seven months ago. He was unable at the time to show his best work on account of a sprained ankle which greatly discommoded him. However, at the present time there will be no such handicap.

Both men are in prime physical condition and the bout will be a fair test of their respective abilities. It has been intimated that Simon Deschler of Albuquerque will challenge the winner, although Deschler stated definitely some time ago that he would not appear again in a public bout.

BRIERLY IS SIGNED UP WITH SANTA FE

Ancient City Baseball Club Will Have Good Bunch of Talent Against Albuquer que Next Sunday.

"Jimmy" Brieler, until recently manager of the Dawson team, and for some years a manager of the Trinidad club, has been signed up by Manager Lopez of the Santa Fe Salmons and will be with that aggregation the rest of the season. Brieler Fred Owens, also a former Trinidad player, will be a fixture on third base for the Santa Fe club. The Albuquerque Grays will have a big job on their hands in the game against the Santa Fe bunch Sunday but are confident that they can handle the Salmons. Brieler, Owens and any other players the Ancient may annex between now and the Sabbath day.

MRS. SHONTS GIVEN NO GREETING ON HER RETURN TO BIG CITY

It Is Evident However That She and Her Husband Will Effect a Reconciliation in Near Future.

MAYOR GAYNOR GETS SILVER LOVING CUP

(News Letter to Evening Herald)

New York, Aug. 3.—Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts and her two daughters, Miss Margarita and the Duchess de Chauvelin, and the latter's son, the little Duke de Chauvelin, arrived from Europe today on the Holland-American liner Rotterdam. Mr. Shonts went down the bay on a revenue cutter to meet the party, but it was observed that he and his wife did not speak to each other on the ship. There were indications, however, of an approaching reconciliation.

Mr. Shonts seemed delighted to see his young grandson. He took the boy up in his arms and carried him up to the upper deck to be photographed. When the ship reached the pier in Hoboken he carried the child down the gangplank five minutes before Mrs. Shonts and her daughters came off.

Mr. Shonts was accompanied in his trip down the bay by his brother-in-law, Frank E. Drake. When asked about the reports of a disagreement between himself and wife, Mr. Shonts replied that he didn't dignify them by discussing them.

Mrs. Shonts said: "Those reports have already been denied. I am not responsible for false reports."

Wednesday, next week, the anniversary of the date on which James J. Gallagher shot Major Gaynor on board the Kaiser William der Grosse at its Hoboken pier, a committee of New Yorkers will give the mayor a $500 silver loving cup in celebration of his recovery.

The mayor is still handicapped by the pressure of the bullet in his throat. One ball is lodged in the sensitive tissues in the back of the throat and is responsible for frequent coughing spells. Ever since his injury the mayor has been forced to decline invitations to address gatherings because of his throat trouble. He has been gradually overcoming this weakness by systematic exercise.

James J. Gallagher, the mayor's assailant, is serving a prison term of twelve years, found guilty on a charge of assault upon "Big Bill" Edwards, street cleaning commissioner, who struck Gallagher's arm after he had shot at the mayor.

Clad in a white linen suit, white shoes and stockings and a big white hat with a crimson plume, Miss Olga Hempton, 18 years old, of 260 West Forty-fourth street, jumped overboard from a canoe fifty yards off the foot of Twenty-second avenue, Bensonhurst yesterday afternoon, to recover a gold mesh bag valued at $400, which had fallen into the water.

The water was up to her shoulders, but she stayed under the surface till her fingers closed around the precious bag. Although handicapped in her water-soaked clothing, Miss Hempton succeeded in swimming to the canoe, which had drifted some distance away.

After having listened for months to controversial negotiations over new transit lines, the city celebrates today the first actual digging for new subway and elevated lines. When completed the lines will add about forty-six miles of underground railways and forty-two miles of overhead to the transit facilities of the greater city. The first breaking of ground was at Sixty-seventh street and Lexington avenue. This will be the first East Side subway, and will run from Forty-second street north to Woodlawn cemetery in the Bronx.

A visitor, startling enough to arouse even hotel clerks, appeared on Manhattan Beach yesterday. Dressed, as the stranger was in a barefoot skirt of light gray, so tight fitting it resembled trousers, high patent leather riding boots, a man's straw hat and a heavy walking stick, conservative summer residents of the Oriental and Manhattan Beach hotels found it hard to determine whether she was man or woman. A fashionable dressmaker, who chanced to be present, however, solved the problem by assuring her friends the swaggering figure must be a woman's, "because my dear, no man possibly could get into a skirt like that."

What the object of the young woman's visit was nobody could guess. Evidently youthful, and not unpleasant to look at, except for her odd get-up, she appeared to have no desire for anything save to walk, which she did, with long athletic strides.

ANOTHER MOVEMENT TO THE BORDER

Reports Have Leaked Out Through Army Circles That Washington Authorities Are Not Satisfied With Mexican Situation.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 3.—A fresh movement of troops to Texas is contemplated late in September according to army officers of high rank at Fort Sam Houston, who say that word has filtered down through military channels that conditions in Mexico are not pleasing to the authorities in Washington.

It was admitted at the maneuvers camp today that orders had been received from the war department to have located and surveyed sites for army division camps.

Officers are now looking over the available ground and other officers have been sent to El Paso to select places for the mobilization of a large body of men.

WASHINGTON LAYS IN HOLE WHERE HEAT REIGNS SUPREME

National Capital Is Regarded as First in Line When It Comes to Summer Temperatures of Country.

PLENTY OF HILLS ON EVERY SIDE TOO

(Washington Letter to the Herald)

Washington, Aug. 3.—It would be considered a crime in these days if a government scientist said recently to go deliberately around the business of building a city on the site selected for this nation's capital, where Washington and his associates could have gone 20 miles in any direction and found a better location.

The scientists' objection to Washington, not George, but the city—it is that it is built in a hole. The guide books say that the capital sits on a commanding hill. "This 'commanding hill' is off of 80 feet above sea level, but it is 'commanding' so far as the rest of the city is concerned, which gives a good idea of the capital's altitude. Just a few miles away on all sides hills rise to a height of from 200 to 400 feet.

Before modernized theology had made lakes of them irreverent unpopularity, Washington usually was accorded second place in temperate governments. More recent scientific investigation indicates that the elevation of Washington to the second rank was an injustice to the capital. But here the capital is located, and here it will have to stay, the collapse of the Kamppel boom having removed the last chance to transfer the seat of government to the Kansas town which is the center of the universe. Being thus under the necessity of remaining here, Congress has gone busily about the business of keeping cool.

It doesn't do it in the old-fashioned way of mint juleps or mint iced root beer either. If a member wishes to laugh at the thermometer in that fashion he must keep the length producer in his own committee room. He cannot get it in the capital or within many blocks of it. Such refrigeration methods may have been popular in the past, but this is a scientific age, and science says alcoholic beverages are not cooling.

By the desk of each senator and representative and in other places of the two chambers are small centrifugal fans which cool air is forced by means of huge fans in the basement. Larger vents in the ceilings afford a means for the exit of the hot air. That last phrase is meant to contain a disrespectful allusion. Nearly eight acres of buildings are cooled in that way and the temperature within the thick marble walls of the capitol is always from five to eight degrees cooler than on the outside. Even the lowering of the temperature has not been satisfying. However, both houses recently have broken away from all conventions and installed electric fans.

MINISTERS MAY BE RECALLED

Two Roswell Pastors Are So Popular That Outsiders Get Up Petition for Their Return to Parishes.

(Special Correspondence to the Herald)

Roswell, N. M., Aug. 3.—Petitions are being forwarded to the bishops of the North and South Methodist churches for the return of Rev. P. T. Ramsey, pastor of the Southern Methodist church, and Rev. H. H. Van Valkenburgh, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, or "northern" church as it is generally called.

Such petitions are not unusual inside the denominations of the minister concerned, but what makes the news interesting in the above paragraph is that these preachers are being prepared from the outside.

The petition as presented by Elmer Gill in the Baptist, Christian and Northern Presbyterian churches Sunday, plainly states:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Roswell, other than the members of this church, appreciate the good work Bro. P. T. Ramsey has done in our midst, do hereby petition you to return Bro. Ramsey to his charge in this city for the next conference year."

The petitions as presented in behalf of Mr. Van Valkenburgh were of identical language except that they were addressed to William A. Quale, bishop of the M. E. church, instead of to James Adkins, the Southern bishop.

The submission of these petitions created something of a sensation in each of the churches in which they were submitted, and at which each received several signatures, it being made plain that they were the result of the opposition to the gentlemen growing out of the prohibition fight of last spring.

No attempt at compulsion was made in the submission of the petition at the Christian church, and it was plainly signed by Dr. Tindler that he would sign the petition because he was a prohibitionist, and Bro. Ramsey had had a hard fight and would have another, but that every person should use his or her judgment, and no one would be thought
